

GREAT BRITAIN

Receives Explanations From the Czar

RUSSIANS STILL RETREATING TO THE NORTH

Japs in Tokio Waiting for Port Arthur's Downfall. Huge Battle Impending. St. Petersburg Is Terror Stricken

RUSSIANS TREKING NORTHWARD.

Tokio, Aug. 5.—General Oku reports that the enemy is retreating northward continually since August 2nd.

On August 3rd our army occupied Hai Cheng, three miles east of the open port of the same name.

JAPANESE ADVANCE ENERGETICALLY.

London, Aug. 5.—A despatch to a news agency from Anshanshan, half way between Hai Cheng and Liao Yang, says that the Japanese advance is being continued with the greatest energy against the southern army.

The Russian main forces continue their retirement northward, but the cavalry has checked the Japanese, who were threatening a flank movement.

DREADFUL LOSS OF LIFE.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 5.—General Sakharoff reports that 29 officers and over a thousand men were killed or wounded in the engagements of July 30th and 31st.

WAITING FOR PORT ARTHUR'S DOWNFALL.

Tokio, Aug. 5.—The Japanese are hourly awaiting tidings of a victory at Port Arthur with more interest and eagerness than heretofore displayed during the war.

GREAT BATTLE IMMINENT.

New Chwang, August 5.—The greatest battle of the war is impending. The two huge armies of Japanese and Russians are facing each other and today are in touch for miles upon miles with the centre of operations at Anshanshan. The Japanese supply trains are filling the roads to the front.

COMMUNICATIONS FROM THE CZAR.

London, Aug. 4.—The Birmingham Post today, states that a messenger arrived in London at a late hour Monday from St. Petersburg with despatches and an autograph letter from the Czar to King Edward. The letter was taken to the King, who is at Cowes attending the yacht races.

Continuing, the Post says the despatches which the messenger brought were read and discussed by members of the cabinet, who held a meeting yesterday, and that another messenger left London later for St. Petersburg. The negotiations that are proceeding, the Post says, are quite apart from the question of the passage of the Dardanelles by the Russian volunteer fleet, and that the letter from the Czar came in this connection.

ST. PETERSBURG IS TERROR STRICKEN.

Meanwhile people from St. Petersburg gave the gravest account of affairs in the Russian capital, stating that "There is a feeling of terror and insecurity in many quarters there which has never been equalled even in Russia."

CHASING CARRIERS OF CONTRABAND.

The St. Petersburg correspondent says that the Russian auxiliary cruiser Donrual, has left the Baltic sea in pursuit of one British and two Swedish vessels believed to be carrying five submarine and seven torpedo boats in sections to the Japanese.

Canadian View on the War

Ottawa, July 28.—Canada's army representative at the scene of the Russo-Japanese war, Capt. Thacker, R.C.A., has forwarded a report to the department of militia, which is interesting, and shows a close study to have been made, considering the circumstances under which he labors. He writes from Tokio, under date of June 29, and explains that up to then that was as close as he was able to go to the scene of action. His departure had been delayed, no date was yet fixed for it, nor was any reason given for not sending him along with others similarly delayed.

Capt. Thacker encloses a narrative of operations of the first Japanese army from March 1, to May 1, together with the comments of several imperial officers on the operations which were carried on at the Yalu. The Japanese field gun used at the Yalu has a range of 8000 yards. A classification of the cause of the wounds of 368 Russian prisoners taken at the Yalu and under treatment at the Japanese hospital at Matsuyama, shows, however, that not a single wound was attributed to the effects of artillery, and this report rather upsets the commonly accepted theory of the havoc wrought by the Japanese artillery. In narrating some of the difficulties encountered by General Kuropki's men, Capt. Thacker mentions the case of a bridge having been swept away by high water in April. The Japanese engineers and infantrymen worked all night in ice-cold water up to their necks, and by weighting the bridge with stones, saved it.

The Russians seemed to be unaware of the Japanese possession of howitzer batteries at the Yalu. The latter were connected by telephone and the captain of one of them said that not a single missile of any sort came near his position all day. The work of the Japanese is carried on with the greatest secrecy until it is accomplished, and even then its result may be withheld from the public.

Capt. Thacker notes that even the entraining of troops at Tokio was conducted secretly, and the heavy guns were covered with canvas so as to conceal their real nature.

Gen. Ian Hamilton, who is one of the British attaches, expressed the opinion that if 2000 Boers had held the Russian position at the Yalu they would have inflicted a heavier loss on the Japanese than the Russians did. This was not said to decry the Japanese in any way, but to show that the Russians, though courageous, must have been slow, stupid and very badly handled, as well as over-confident.

Gen. Hamilton adds that the Russians' position resembled the Boer position at Colenso, except that in the case of Yalu all the points of strength were accentuated. The Russians seemed to have no idea of the small deceptions which were practiced by the Japanese with great effect. Gen. Sir William Nicholson, another South African veteran, is quoted as saying:

"The Japs concur with the continental powers in believing that a closer formation than we adopted in South Africa, is essential to proper cohesion and due momentum at the time of impact. The losses may be heavier, but the result is likely to be less indecisive."

Line in Good Shape

Telegram:

Wm. Mackenzie, president of the C.N.R., and A. E. James, general manager, returned to the city this morning after a trip of inspection over the lines of the road. They arrived in Mr. Mackenzie's special car, which was attached to the flyer from St. Paul. Since leaving the city on Saturday last they visited Erwood on the Prince Albert branch of the system, and looked over the extension at Kamsack on the main line of the system.

Speaking to a reporter for The Telegram this morning, Mr. James said that the inspection had been most satisfactory, and both officials were well pleased with the condition of the company's lines. The new track laid for 100 miles on the Kamsack extension was found to be in fine shape.

Run to Earth

Regina, Aug. 1.—It is reported here on the best authority that two men named Schofield and Duffy have been arrested charged with stealing 250 horses, the property of Pascal Bonneau, of Wood Mountain. They are the men supposed to be the accessories of the "Dutch Henry" gang, which for two years have been terrorizing the whole south Assiniboia country.

They have repeatedly defied and evaded the N.W.M.P., and have kept Wood Mountain settlers in such a state of fear that all were afraid to assist the police.

Although "Dutch Henry" is still at large it is believed that the arrest of accessories will break up the gang. Schofield is supposed to have furnished "Dutch Henry" with a safe retreat for a year past.

Schofield is a bad character, who shot a man in Montana some time ago. Many settlers have been subjected to the greatest indignities at the hands of this gang and news of their arrest is received with delight.

Municipal Taxation

C. W. Peterson, president of the Calgary Board of Trade has been devoting a great deal of attention to improved methods of municipal taxation. He presented a very exhaustive report on this subject, part of which is as follows:

I attach herewith some suggested amendments to the city of Calgary ordinance which would give the effect to the views which I have formed after devoting considerable time of studying the question of readjusting the basis of taxation so that the burden might be more evenly distributed than it is at present.

In my judgment, the Winnipeg system is somewhat complicated and inefficient. The equalization of the assessment can be only approximately made by such a process. Ontario has undoubtedly the most up-to-date and well considered system of taxation, but apparently suffers from a difficulty in arriving at land values in the cases of isolated lots. The suggestions I have made embody, as far as I have been able to, the good points of the Ontario and Winnipeg systems and eliminate what I have considered their weaknesses.

It would be unable to content that the suggested change would meet all objections. A perfectly equitable taxation system has yet to be evolved. I have, however, kept prominently in view two important points, namely, that taxation should be levied first, on a basis of the ability of the individual to pay and, secondly, on a basis of the services rendered the individual by the municipality. The figures quoted in the enclosure are, more or less, arbitrary and could probably best be fixed by the city assessor who would be in a position to figure out the amounts that would have to be collected through the proposed business tax to cover the deficit caused by the abolition of the personality assessment.

The following is the suggested basis of business taxation:

1.—Irrespective of any taxation of real property under this ordinance every person occupying or using premises in the city for the purpose of any business mentioned or described in this section shall be taxed a sum to be called "Business Tax" to be computed by reference to the rental value of the premises so occupied or used by him, as follows:

(a) Every person carrying on the business of a distiller for a sum equal to 15 per cent. of the said rental value.

(b) Every person carrying on the business of a brewer for a sum equal to 10 per cent. of the said rental value of the premises occupied or used by him for such business exclusive of any portion of such land occupied by him and used by him for a dwelling house and for a sum equal to 5 per cent. of the rental value as to such last mentioned portion.

(c) Every person carrying on the business of a wholesale merchant, of an insurance company, a loan company, a trust company, an express company, a land company, or of a bank or banker, or of any other financial business for a sum equal to 9 per cent. of the said rental value.

(d) Every person carrying on the business of a manufacturer, for a sum equal to 6 per cent. of the said rental value, and a manufacturer shall not be liable to business assessment as a wholesale merchant by reason of his carrying on the business of selling by wholesale the goods of his own manufacture on such premises.

(e) Every person carrying on the business of what is known as a departmental store or of a retail merchant dealing in more than five branches of retail trade or business in the same premises or in separate departments of premises under one roof, or in connected premises where the rental of the premises exceeds $1000 per annum, or of a coal and wood or lumber dealer, lithographer, printer or publisher, or of a club in which meals or spirituous or fermented liquors are sold or furnished or the business of selling, bartering or trafficking in fermented, spirituous or other liquors in any premises in respect of which a shop license has been granted, for a sum equal to 7 per cent. of the said rental value.

(f) Every person carrying on business as a barrister, solicitor, notary public, conveyancer, physician, surgeon, oculist, aurist, medical electrician, dentist, veterinarian, civil or mining consulting or mechanical or electrical engineer, surveyor or architect and, subject section 5, every person carrying on a financial or commercial business as an agent only for a sum equal to 5 per cent. of the said rental value.

Provided that where a person belonging to any class mentioned in this clause occupies or uses premises partly for the purpose of his business and partly for a residence he shall be taxed for a sum equal to 5 per cent. of the rental value of the premises so occupied or used by him.

(g) Every person carrying on the business of a photographer, or of a theatre, concert hall, skating rink, or other place of amusement, or of a boarding stable, or a livery, or the letting of vehicles or other property for hire, or a restaurant, eating house, or other house of public entertainment, or a hotel in respect of which a tavern license has been granted or any trade or commercial business not specially mentioned therein for a sum equal to 11-2 per cent. of the said rental value.

1. Every person carrying on the business of a telegraph or telephone company, or of an electric railway, tramway, or street railway, or of the transmission of oil or water, or of steam heat, gas or electricity for the purpose of light, heat or power, for a sum equal to 31-2 per cent. of the rental value of the premises, not being on a highway, road, street, lane or public place or water, or private right of way, occupied or used by such person, exclusive of the value of any machinery, plant or appliances erected or placed upon, in, over, under or affixed to such premises.

2. No person shall be taxed in respect of the same premises under more than one of the clauses of section 1, and where any person carries on more than one of the kinds of business mentioned in that section on the same premises, he shall be taxed by reference to the rental value of the whole of the premises under that one of the said clauses in which is included the kind of business which is the chief or preponderating business of those so carried on by him in or upon such premises.

3. Where the amount of the taxation of any person taxable under this section, would under the foregoing provisions be less than five dollars, he shall be taxed the sum of five dollars.

4. Where any person mentioned in section 1 occupies or uses land partly for the purposes of his business and partly for the purpose of residence, he shall be taxed in respect of the part occupied for the purpose of his business only; but this provision shall not apply to persons taxed under clause 1 of section 1.

5. No person shall be subject to tax-

THE SHERA CUP

WON BY THE FORT

In a Splendid Game of Baseball. Play Again This Afternoon. Fort comes up next week

Bulletin Special Dispatch.

Fort Saskatchewan, Aug. 5.—There was a very large turnout to see the baseball game for the Shera cup on the Agricultural Park grounds last evening between the Edmonton and Fort Saskatchewan teams, when the Fort won by a score of 8 to 7.

The Strathcona team was also expected to compete, but it is said some outsiders expected did not turn up, and so were unable to get to the Fort in time to play in the first drawing.

The evening was an ideal one for baseball and the large crowds were not disappointed, as the article of ball put up, outside of a bad innings on each side, was the best game seen here this year.

In the first innings the Fort by good hitting, accompanied by a couple of errors, scored five runs. After that they were blanketed repeatedly, only scoring in two of the other innings. Edmonton scored one in the third, one in the sixth and five in the ninth. A pretty catch by Simons on third saved the Fort from being at least tied, there being two on bases and two out.

The score stood 8 to 7 at the end of the ninth innings. The following were the players:—

The umpire was Donald Irwin, who gave excellent satisfaction.

A dance was given in Langworthy hall for the boys in the evening. The Edmonton team was induced to stay and play an exhibition game at the fair today. The day is not very promising for the fair, but a large crowd is expected in and some very good races anticipated. The boys feel confident they can trim the Fort team this afternoon. Fort Saskatchewan will play ball in Edmonton early next week.

Getting Sick of It

The editor of the Toronto Saturday Night expresses himself as follows on the Dundonald affair:

It may be interesting reading to many people, but I confess I am getting tired of this Dundonald business. If Lord Dundonald is not being handed out a little more than his share of Canadian applause, what a rip-roaring welcome we should have given Aylesworth and Jette when they returned after fighting this country's battle against Lord Alverstone and the Yankee representatives on the Alaska boundary tribunal. A banquet at the King Edward was the size of the popular recognition of Mr. Aylesworth's services, and he, rather than exalt himself and what he had done, chose in his speech to minimize the sinuities of diplomacy by which Canada was tricked into accepting the Commission and flummoxed by the award. Had Mr. Aylesworth chosen at the banquet given him on his return, to play the part of the gentlemanly firebrand, Canada, the Empire and the United States could have easily been embroiled in a most heated controversy—a controversy, even as it was, that will not soon be forgotten. I regret to think that Dundonald has not shown as much self-restraint nor made equal sacrifices to promote peace. Mr. Aylesworth could have made himself the lion of the hour, had his chariot hauled about the streets for a week if he had so desired, and made himself the central figure of a new and for the time an overwhelming movement in Canadian politics. He chose the better part and showed himself the greater man.

The crowds that saw Dundonald off at Ottawa and welcomed him in Montreal demonstrated a popularity won in South Africa rather than in Canada, and I am afraid that when he returns, as it is said he proposes to do shortly, he will find the people talking about something else and unlikely to make the same tremendous efforts to touch the hem of his garment. Evidently restrained by his instructions to make no more speeches Lord Dundonald said little, but in the Windsor hotel, Montreal, what he did say, though somewhat ambiguous, was inflammatory. The reports of the Mail and Empire and the Globe practically agree, though the former says "cut" while the latter says "clutch." He is reported as saying, "Words fail me; it shows me what the people think—and a great deal depends on what the people think. I am certain of one thing; you have got both hands on the Union Jack, and if any man tries to cut your hands away the militia of Canada will stand by you." What does this mean? One paper has it "if any man tries to 'clutch' a hand away," and the other "if any man tries to 'cut' your hands away, the militia of Canada will stand by you." Who is Lord Dundonald to talk about the militia of Canada standing by someone who has both hands on the Union Jack? Does he mistake himself for the Union Jack? When he comes back is he to be in the humor to call out the Canadian militia? It would be bad enough to shoot off that sort of talk in Ontario; and though he probably had not the remotest intention of referring to the French-Canadians, his words will be construed to have an incendiary meaning. It matters nothing what he meant; what he said was rubbish and we have had enough of it.

Fires at Frank

Blairmore Times.

The past week has been one of constant alarm, here over the forest fires that have been raging on every side of us, and which, several times, threatened to sweep over and destroy the town. On Saturday afternoon the first real alarm was felt for the safety of the town when news was received that J. McLaren's house was burned and that the fire was sweeping down the flat towards town fanned by a strong wind. The town turned out, and a successful fight was made against this fire, it being stopped just above town. Meanwhile fire had broken out in the heavy timber on the north side of the track, and here the fire gained such a start that it looked for a time as if the town was doomed. By this time news of the town's perils had reached Frank and Manager S. W. Gebb, of the coal company there, at once brought up a force of his miners and personally took charge of the fire fighting. It was largely due to the efforts of Mr. Gebb and his men that the fire was gotten under control and the people of Blairmore feel duly grateful for the timely assistance rendered by their Frank neighbors.

Saturday Beliveau was also said to be doomed and volumes of flame and smoke could be discerned there. The miners, however, turned out to fight the fire and with the help also sent by the Frank people, managed to save the village with the exception of a few old buildings and the bunk house, which became a prey to the fiery element. On the Chett ranch, near Bellevue, the buildings were destroyed and J. W. Ashdown with the assistance of neighbors fought fire the best part of a week to save his handsome new residence.

At Hill crest a big fire has been raging and more than once it looked as if the buildings were doomed and it was all that the miners could do to save the company's property. A. Hood, who has a ranch near that place, lost his home with its contents and barely saved the lives of himself and family.

Fears are felt for the safety of Little, which is surrounded by heavy timber, as a big fire is slowly making its way towards that place. If rain does not fall in heavy showers soon, it is hard to tell what damage these fires may do yet.
